

What are the powers of the Fair Trading Commission?

The Fair Trading Commission has the power to:

- Conduct investigations into alleged violations of the Fair Competition Act.
- Compel persons to provide information and give oral evidence.
- Enter and search premises, and to inspect and remove copies of necessary documents.
- Discontinue any investigation which after initial inquiry or investigation is deemed not warrant further inquiry.
- Declare illegal certain business activities or agreements.